

Missouri Valley Economics Association, 2015, Kansas City

Methodology and Political Economy: Assumptions, Data Analysis, and Problem Solving (Association for Evolutionary Economics session)

Chair: Hee-Young Shin, Department of Economics, Wright State University

Discussant 1: Hee-Young Shin, Department of Economics, Wright State University

Discussant 2: James Webb, University of Missouri – Kansas City

1. A Problem Solving Approach to Data Analysis for Economics
Panayotis Giannakouros, Center for Computational Mathematics and Modeling, James Madison University
2. The UN's Approach to Mexican Women's Human Rights Violations during the War on Drugs: Hijacking Socio-Economic Rights in the Neoliberal Era
Karol Gil Vasquez, Nichols College
3. Interdisciplinary Rational Agents: Incorporating Biological Evidence into Economic Assumptions
Jerome D. Cox, University of Missouri Kansas City
4. Envisioning a Sustainable World: Exploring the Methods of Ecological Economics
Richard Wagner, Rockhurst University